CONVERSATIONS UNSCRIPTED

In cooperation with Microsoft

In the new era of AI, technology continues to play a key role in addressing inequalities, providing new opportunities in the digital economy and tackling the global digital divide. Ensuring that everyone benefits from this digital transformation is a shared responsibility of governments and technology companies alike. Girls and women cannot be left out of shaping this transformation. Now is the time to re-double our efforts to close the gender gap in technology as well as among the decision-makers who will shape digital policies impacting our world. Conversations Unscripted is a multi-stakeholder initiative aiming to reduce the gender gap in politics and technology.

POWERING TOGETHER TO PUSH FORWARD FOR GENDER EQUALITY

In cooperation with UN Women

Today, the pursuit of gender equality faces unprecedented challenges. As we approach the halfway mark to the 2030 deadline for the Sustainable Development Goals, it is disheartening to note that we are still close to 300 years away from reaching gender equality based on the current rate of progress. The primary objective of this LeadersTalk is to foster a dynamic, interactive dialogue among thought leaders and experts from various sectors, to identify strategies and best practices that can reinforce institutions upholding democracy, human rights, and gender equality. Conversationists will be asked to share strategies and examples that have been useful or that they see valuable in responding to these challenges.

- Opening Remarks by Michelle Milford Morse, Vice President for Girls and Women Strategy, United Nations Foundation
- Hanna Birna Kristjánsdóttir, Chair and Co-founder of the Reykjavík Global Forum, Senior Advisor on Women's Leadership, UN Women
- Tea Trumbic, Manager, Women, Business and the Law, World Bank Group
- Chaired by Lopa Banerjee, Director, Civil Society Division, UN Women

Venue: Esja 5, Harpa

WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO BE A 'REAL MAN' AND HOW DOES IT AFFECT GENDER EQUALITY?

In cooperation with OECD Development Centre

PROGRAMME

With seven years left to Agenda 2030, progress towards gender equality has been mixed. There have been some gains, but also setbacks, especially in recent years with the pandemic and interconnected climate, energy and financial crisis. This session will explore the underlying social expectations on gender roles and norms of masculinities that restrict women's empowerment and identify approaches and strategies to transform such norms into gender-equitable ones for the benefit and well-being of all.

- OECD Presentation: Bathylle Missika, Head of the Networks, Partnerships and Gender Division at the OECD Development Centre
- Katrín Jakobsdóttir, Prime Minister of Iceland
- Varina Winder, Chief of Staff for the Secretary of State's Office of Global Women's Issues, U.S. Department of State

13.35 - 13.55

COST OF LIVING AND THE WELLBEING ECONOMY

The conversation in this panel will focus on the ever increasing cost of living, which cannot be ignored. Not only does it reduce everyone's quality of life, but it also narrows access to leadership paths for women. Simple, yet very effective, solutions, such as equal pay, shared parental leave and equal representation can produce a more virtuous circle, benefitting all of society.

- Ulrik Vestergaard Knudsen, Deputy Secretary-General, OECD
- Ebony Young, Deputy Borough President, Queens, City of New York
- Christina McKelvie, Minister for Culture, Europe and International Development, Scottish Government
- Dagur B. Eggertsson, Mayor of Reykjavík

The conversation in this panel will focus on Icelandic men discussing the importance of men taking responsibility when it comes to the fight for gender equality. Gender equality is not and cannot be solely a woman's issue, men need to step up so we can all achieve a common goal. A truly equal society would provide myriad benefits and opportunities for all.
- Bjarni Benediktsson, Minister for Foreign Affairs
 - Andri Heiðar Kristinsson, CEO of Digital Iceland
 - Ægir Már Þórisson, CEO of Advania
 - Chaired by Gary Barker, Director of Instituto Promundo
- ENERGY BOOSTING BREAK
- 15.50 - 16.10 WHY ECONOMIC POWER IS A VITAL SIGN FOR WOMEN'S HEALTH
The conversation in this panel will focus on how, to be healthy, women must have the power to make decisions over their own lives. Unlocking women's economic power and ambition creates new leaders and innovators in the women's health space.
- Roopa Dhatt, Executive & Co-Founder, Women in Global Health
 - Jen Okwudili, Deputy Director with the Global Policy and Advocacy
 - Obiageli "Oby" Ezekwesili, Chair of WPL
 - Chaired by Janet Mbugua, Kenya

PROGRAMME

- 16.15 - 16.35 THE LONG HAUL: HOW CAN WE ENSURE WOMEN RETAIN POWER?
The conversation in this panel will focus on the trend of women leaving senior leadership positions, one that has existed for years, in all sectors, and 2023 brought several high-profile examples. Why is this occurring and how can this trend be reversed?
- Dalia Grybauskaitė, President of Lithuania (2009 - 2019)
 - Simonetta Sommaruga, President of the Swiss Confederation (2015 & 2020)
 - Tarja Halonen, President of Finland (2000 - 2012)

DEFENDING DEMOCRACY IN THE DIGITAL AGE

In cooperation with Microsoft (Democracy Forward)

Democracy is under pressure globally. Technology seems poised to play an increasing role in protecting democratic societies, whether through bringing attention to the impact of disinformation on the information ecosystem, the importance of responsible development of artificial intelligence, the incorporation of diverse leadership perspectives, or the safeguarding of democratic processes and institutions. This conversation will blend multi-stakeholder perspectives, including that of Microsoft's Democracy Forward team, the nonprofit sector, journalism and others, to explore this important topic.

- Amy Larsen, Director of Strategy, Defend Democracy at Microsoft
- Sandra Pepera, Senior Associate and Director, Gender, Women and Democracy, National Democratic Institute
- Irene Fellin, Secretary General's Special Representative for Women, Peace and Security, NATO
- Chaired by Donna Leinwand Leger, President and Founder, DC Media Strategies

ICELANDIC BUSINESSWOMEN: SUCCESSES AND CHALLENGES

For 14 consecutive years Iceland has placed first on the World Economic Forum Gender Pay Gap Index as the country that has achieved the greatest successes in closing the gender gap. In a world where under 10% of Heads of States or Governments and under 10% of CEOs of the largest companies are women, Iceland has managed to succeed in having more gender balanced politics. Iceland has a woman Prime Minister and Minister of Finance and over 40% of Members of Parliament are women; can the same balance be found within the business society?

- Iðá Brá Benediktsdóttir, Deputy Chief Executive Officer, Arion Bank
- Tanya Zharov, Deputy Chief Executive Officer, Alvotech
- Kristín Linda Árnadóttir, Deputy Chief Executive, Landsvirkjun
- Arna Grímsdóttir, EVP, Legal Affairs, HS Orka

14.35 - 14.55

SPOTLIGHT: FEMALE AMBASSADORS IN ICELAND "WOMEN ON THE FRONT LINES BUT NOT AT THE TABLE"

The conversation in this panel will focus on the fact that women are more likely to serve as ambassadors in more gender-equal countries than those with greater economic clout and conflict-affected states. How can it be demonstrated that this needs to change?

- Kirsten Geelan, Ambassador of Denmark to Iceland
- Carrin Patman, Ambassador of the United States to Iceland
- Lucie Samcova Hall-Allen, Ambassador of the European Union to Iceland
- Jeannette Menzies, Ambassador of Canada to Iceland
- Chaired by Diane Gashumba, Ambassador of Rwanda to the Nordic Countries

15.00 - 15.20

SCREENTIME: WHY EQUAL REPRESENTATION MATTERS IN FRONT OF AND BEHIND THE CAMERA

The conversation in this panel will focus on the gendered stereotypes that remain prevalent – on all of our screens and in all types of media – from the big screen to TVs to phones, from social platforms to established legacy content creators and distributors. Women remain in the minority making key decisions. Where are we seeing progress and how can we forge new successes in representation?

- Caty Burgess, former SVP, Marketing & Media Strategies, The CW
- Claire Tavernier, Media and Digital Advisor, Leadership Coach
- Adrienne C. Smith, SVP and Senior Partner, FleishmanHillard
