European Biomass to Power Summit 2025 / 10th & 11th September / Hamburg, Germany

In an era where the regulatory winds shift almost daily, knowing where your company strategy stands is paramount. The European Biomass to Power 2025 Summit isn't just another industry event; among other key topics it will also serve as your compass for navigating the critical "Policy & Regulation" landscape.

Join European Biomass to Power Summit 2025 on 11th & 12th September in Hamburg, Germany and gain direct policy and regulation insights from top-tier speakers from the European Biogas Association and Bioenergy Europe, and equip yourself to shape, not just react to, the future of our industry.

Anastasiya Agapova is a Technical Manager at the European Biogas Association (EBA). She manages and coordinates the technical and project work within the EBA and supports EBA's policy and communication work with technical knowledge and data. Anastasiya holds PhD in Chemistry from Leibniz Institute for Catalysis (LIKAT), Germany on the topic of sustainable hydrogen generation.

Manolis Karampinis is Director of the Business Development and Membership Department of Bioenergy Europe since October 2022. Among others, his duties include the management of the European Pellet Council (EPC) and the coordination of the Working Groups on Pellets. Prior to joining Bioenergy Europe, Manolis had more than 15 years of experience in the bioenergy sector as a research associate at Centre for Research and Technology Hellas (CERTH).

In their presentations Anastasiya and Manolis will focus on:

- Exploring the influence of legislation on biomass development and how slow-moving or delayed regulations can hinder industry progress
- Analysing the ongoing implementation of RED III, the evolution of regulatory frameworks, and the impact of the European Commission's agenda on biomass policy
- Examining the implications of sustainability regulations, including EUDAR, and their effects on biomass sourcing, production, and usage
- Addressing the need for policy support in emerging biomass applications (e.g., BECCS) and navigating uncertainty in long-term planning due to regulatory instability
